Manage Your Small Business
Cash Flow Using These Five Checking Accounts

We’ve all read our profit-and-loss statements but do they really help you make decisions? Does your P and L help you understand how much money you have, how much money the business has, how much money you’ve set aside for taxes, how much profit the company is really making, and whether or not you have enough cash on hand to invest in a great investment opportunity? If not, manage your business with five checking accounts and you will have clarity (and security) moving forward. Small-business finance does not have to be complicated.
Without cash, a business will crash. And while many small-business owners may know how to make money, they don’t always know how to manage it. To ensure your business flies far and fast, install the Small Business Cash Flow Made Simple Playbook. When you do so, you will . . .

- Never accidentally run out of money. You will know well in advance whether your overall profit is shrinking.
- Always have the money to pay taxes, even surprise tax bills.
- Always have money for payroll.
- Know how much money YOU can actually take from the business.
- Have cash to invest back into the business which will set you up for growth.

*Instructions for your Small Business Flight Plan can be found in the book How to Grow Your Small Business or through the online platform at BusinessMadeSimple.com.
Operating Account
This is the account that all money flows into and out from. All revenue will stream into this account and all bills, including the owner’s salary, will flow from this account.

Personal Checking Account
This is the owner’s personal account. The owner will take a fixed salary from the operating account once or twice a month and move it into the personal account. The owner does not take money from the operating account for personal use.

Business Profit Account
When the operating account goes over a certain predetermined amount, you scrape money off the top to put in your business savings account. Your business profit account will eventually grow to five or six times your monthly overhead. Your business profit account becomes the safety net for the organization.

Tax Account
Whenever you put money into your business savings account, you’ll want to put the same amount of money in your tax account. Essentially, you will be splitting the excess money (true profit) your business is making between your savings and tax account. Putting 50% of your profit into your tax account ensures you will always have the money to pay taxes. In fact, because you are putting in 50% and tax rates are lower, you will be saving excess money for taxes and can give yourself a solid return at the end of the year.

Investment Holding Account
Your business profit account also has a pre-set top threshold that is five or six times your monthly overhead. When the business profit account exceeds that threshold, scrape the money off the top and put it into your investment holding account. This, then, is the money that is yours to do with whatever you like. We recommend taking that money and buying investments that make even more money and help diversify your revenue. For instance, you could use this money to fund your SEP IRA, buy property or other assets, or invest in the stock market.
